Abstract: Research means “search of knowledge” and knowledge is power. It involves studying the methods used in the field. The research output solves the problem in the society. Research takes place with the purpose of acquiring knowledge to contribute to further investigation. Research means – the repetitive and in-depth findings of the objects. Research is a careful and detailed study into a specific problem, concern, or issue using many methods. The two main types of research are qualitative research and quantitative research. A research study is a scientific means of examining the characteristics of variables to further our understanding of a particular subject or topic. A good research involves systematic planning and setting time-based, realistic objectives. Research methodology involves the specific procedure which helps the students to identify, choose, process, and analyze information about a subject. To solve the difficulties coming in the way of Research is the main work of designing a methodology. It is necessary not just to identify the problem for Research but to determine the best method to solve that problem as well. Any research uses many different types of research methodologies which include a collection of data, designing research structure, analysis of data etc.

Second session was chaired by Dr. S. Praveen Kumar. Dr. B. S. Poornima, Principal of the Government First Class College, Channarayapatna focused on Advanced Research Methodology in Social sciences. Dr. Poornima B. S’s brief abstract is as follows:

Abstract: Research is a way to build knowledge. It is an essential requirement to start analysing, writing, reading and distributing information. Research methodology for social sciences provides guidelines for designing and conducting evidence-based research in social sciences and interdisciplinary studies using both qualitative and quantitative data. Blending the particularity of different sub-disciplines and interdisciplinary nature of social sciences. Research methodology as a compulsory courses at Masters, doctoral levels across different disciplines in social sciences, such as economics, sociology, women's studies, education, anthropology, political science, international relations, philosophy, history, commerce and business management. To exterminate these confusions the only solution is to understand some basic concepts of research methodology in social science.
